South Carolina Wing Encampment 2001

Semper Vigilans -- Always Vigilant

CHECKIN' IT IN

BY C/CMSGT MCKENZIE

"You're not in Kansas anymore," remarked a staff officer during check-in to the cadets in line. The shock of entering summer encampment became a reality yesterday. For many cadets this is the most strict environment they have ever seen or will ever see in CAP.

The contraband search left many cadets without the comforts and reminders of home, not to mention the junk food. They quickly learned that the people with the black shirts are very much in charge, for the staff this was their chance to deliver a first impression. The message discipline, professionalism, and obedience.

The fast pace of encampment life has begun. So much to do and so little time. With this

CADET DAILY FOCUS

Welcome to another year of the SC Encampment. Meet your Cadet Commander.

Chris Lind- Encampment Cadet Commander. Col. Lind joined CAP in 1995. He served as Cadet Executive Officer for the 1999 encampment, and Deputy Commander for the 2000 encampment. He served as Cadet Commander for the Aiken Composite Squadron from 1999-2000.

Cadet Lind has attended 3 national flight academies, earned his FAA private pilot/glider rating at the age of 16, and has logged over 100 realization the cadets soon found out that they will be on the move constantly for the next seven days. GOOD LUCK CADETS!!! (Want another cookie Lt. Desrochers?)

Followership

Followership is reaching a specific goal while exercising respect for authority, a positive attitude, integrity and self-discipline. Through the first three chapters cadets will be followers. A cadet will look at what is going on around him/her, learn why things are done, and listen well.

flights in gliders. He has also soloed in powered aircraft.

Cadet Lind was selected as South Carolina Wing's Cadet of the Year in 1999, received the Air Force Torch Award in 1999, and the Air Force Association's Outstanding CAP Cadet Award for 1999.

He was elected to join the SC Air National Guard and will be attending basic training at Lackland AFB, TX later this summer. He will then be attending the University of South Carolina, majoring in Business Management with a minor in Political Science.

He plans to continue his CAP membership as a senior member while attending college and hopes to have an opportunity for Air Force flight training after completing his degree.

Good Luck Colonel Lind.

WE SALUTE YOU!!!!

BY C/CMSGT MCKENZIE

With so much to do and so little time, the Senior Members come through once again. For the second year in a row 1st Lt. Sutton has been Encampment commander.

In the beginning things didn't start out as smoothly as planned, buildings were changed, supplies were in a non-existent state, and things were not as originally planned.

This did not distress or upset 1st Lt. Sutton. Life goes on and people make adjustments. That is exactly what Lt. Sutton did, and will continue to do. Some people when things don't go their way they just give up and hide, but when things didn't go Lt. Sutton's way he pushed through the rough.

He is a true example to CAP and we should all be proud to want to follow in his footsteps. Starting out as the Deputy Commander of Cadets in the Lexington Composite Squadron he didn't stop there.

This man and many other diligent Senior Members are the reason that this Encampment is happening, today.

So cadets the next time you see your Encampment Commander treat him with the respect that he deserves, because without the organization of these wonderful senior Members Led by Lt. Sutton that has this dream would never have become a reality.

WE SALUTE YOU, Lt. Sutton.

Leadership is the art of influencing and directing people in a way that will win their obedience, confidence, respect, and loyal cooperation in achieving a common objective.

THE CADET OATH:

I pledge that I will serve faithfully in the Civil Air Patrol Cadet Program, and that I will attend meetings regularly, participate actively in unit activities, obey my officers, wear my uniform properly, and advance my education and training rapidly to prepare myself to be of service to my community, state and nation.

Capt. McGurk and 1LT. Sutton discuss Encampment setup.

EATIN' IT UP

BY C/CMSGT MCKENZIE

Hungry after a long day of drilling? Well, you're in luck. This week we have the privilege of working with Ms. Michelle Clancy, our Mess hall person.

In apologies for the lateness of lunch Ms. Clancy says,

INSIDE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 100-150 words.

The subject matter that appears in newsletters is virtually endless. You can include stories that focus on current technologies or innovations in your field.

You may also want to note business or economic trends, or make predictions for your customers or clients.

If the newsletter is distributed internally, you might comment upon new procedures or improvements to the business. Sales figures or earnings will show how your business is growing.

"To catch the reader's attention, place an interesting sentence or quote from the story here."

INSIDE STORY HEADLINE

This story can fit 75-125 words.

Selecting pictures or graphics is an important part of adding content to your newsletter.

Think about your article and ask yourself if the picture supports or enhances the message you're trying to convey. Avoid selecting images that appear to be out of context.

Microsoft Publisher includes thousands of clip art images from which you can choose and import into your newsletter. There are also several tools you can use to draw shapes and symbols.

Once you have chosen an image, place it close to the article. Be sure to place the caption of the image near the image.

Your organization tag line here.

This would be a good place to insert a short paragraph about your organization. It might include the purpose of the organization, its mission, founding date, and a brief history. You could also include a brief list of the types of products, services, or programs your organization offers, the geographic area covered (for example, western U.S. or European markets), and a profile of the types of customers or members served.

It would also be useful to include a contact name for readers who want more information about the organization.

This story can fit 175-225 words.

If your newsletter is folded and mailed, this story will appear on the back. So, it's a good idea to make it easy to read at a glance.

A question and answer session is a good way to quickly capture the attention of readers. You can either compile questions that you've received since the last edition or you can summarize some generic questions that are frequently asked about your organization.

A listing of names and titles of managers in your organization is a good way to give your newsletter a personal touch. If your organization is small, you may want to list the names of all employees.

If you have any prices of standard products or services, you can include a listing of those here. You may want to refer your readers to any other forms of communication that you've created for your organization.

You can also use this space to remind readers to mark their calendars for a regular event, such as a breakfast meeting for vendors every third Tuesday of the month, or a biannual charity auction.

If space is available, this is a good place to insert a clip art image or some other graphic.
